But as a parent, there's plenty you can do to make seventh grade better for your child. It's a commonly held truth that no three years are as miserable in an American child's life as middle school. But those three years, so awkwardly sandwiched between elementary and high school, are not created equal. The top contender as middle school's worst year, in all of its cringe-worthy, hormone-infused, brain-addled confusion is seventh grade, a tween's annus horribilus.

Fast forward to 2020 and it looks like not much has changed for middle schoolers, except it seems adults have found a way to make dances worse than ever. According to a story in The Salt Lake City Tribune, the policy at Rich County Middle School in northern Utah is that a child cannot decline an invitation to dance. Chew on that for a minute.
